[We know our Kratos herói in the forest. He looks sad, tired and old. His face is covered with a thick beard. Kratos is on a high biter with an ax in his hands. It touches the birch with the palm of the hand and cuts it down with some powerful blows. The traces will unwind his hand wounds. He looks at her for a while and then wraps them back. A boy comes to him with a branch in his mother] Boy: I found some. Kratos: Enter the boat, Boy: I found some. Kratos: Enter the bo and the other end throws it to the boy. The boy ties the rope for the boat] Kratos. That is enough. [They go to your house. Kratos what? Atreu: Have you changed something? The forest feels different now. Kratos: Everything is different, boy. Try not to think about it. Atreu: Yes, sir. [They go to your house. Kratos puts the log to others] Kratos. That was the last. [Atreu enters the house to pray on the dead.] Atreu: Lo, I do not make them call me. Lo, do not make them call me. Sheep ¢ is ready. [Kratos enters the house. He is at the door, his face covered with the darkness. He takes the body in his arms and takes him to the stacked firewood] Kratos. Find your way from home. You are free. [He sets the firewood in the fire reaching the ignition with his ax. The body begins to burn. One minute later, she realized she forgot to pick up the knife. He runs up to the body burns and grabs the knife with his hands, but reveals himself too hot and attached burning his hand and dropped the knife] Atreu: IÃ ¢ m sorry. [Kratos arrives up to him, gets a little snow with his hands and applies-to the tugged hand.] Kratos: Squeeze. This knife ¢ | It was hers. Now it's yours. Did she teach you to hunt? Atreu: What she knew. Kratos: Show me. Atreu: now? Kratos: Now. Atreu: Whatâ € Are we hunting? Kratos: You're hunting deer. Atreu: What way? Kratos: in the direction of deer. Atreu: Okaya |? Uhha | This form- [They hunt. A lot of snow fence. Wild, untouched nature] Atreu: Then we left for the mountain? Kratos: It need to know that you can survive the trip. Atreu: Then we left for the mountain? Kratos: It need to know that you can survive the trip. Atreu: Then we left for the mountain? Kratos: It need to know that you can survive the trip. Atreu: Then we left for the mountain? Kratos: It need to know that you can survive the trip. Atreu: Then we left for the mountain? Kratos: It need to know that you can survive the trip. Atreu: Then we left for the mountain? Kratos: It need depends on you. Hunt. Kratos: What did you think? Atreu: Tracks. No deuses though. I keep looking. Kratos: Boy. You lose these. Atreu: huha | Close, but also not deer. To see? Tips are very wide. Mountain goat? Kratos: Her mother taught him well. Atreu: Yeahà ¢ | Iar Ă ¢ Summer in front. Kratos: More tracks? Atreu: Yeah. But theyâ € re too round. It could be a boar. Kratos: Good. [Dared to see a fall bridge.] Atreu: OOP. What now? [Kratos jumps easily on the fall bridge.] Kratos: In this way, boy. Atreu: Hup! Oh. Wait. Stag tracks. Theyà ¢ re re. This way. [He runs forward and unexpectedly comes across a huge deer.] Atreu: aaah! I found. Kratos: slow down, boy! Atreu: Sorrya ¢ | Kratos You're hunting dear - do not chase you. Atreu: Yes, Dad. [A huge deer with large winding horns appears on your way. Scared of unwanted guests, he flees, destroying the small bridge with his huge hooves] Atreu: He broke our bridge | How are we going to cross.? Kratos: side step. [Kratos takes your Levathan, in his powerful hands and throw it to the barrier. When it breaks the ax returns to Kratos ¢ s] ATREU:. Wow. Go. Atreu: Woah. What happened here? So you're! Kratos: Hold. [Despite the clamor of his father atru sprouts and wasted.] Kratos: Hold. [Despite the clamor of his father atru sprouts and wasted.] Kratos: Do not apologize. Better. Find. (Atreu tries to resume your bow, but Kratos do not leave it) Find. This. [They stumble upon zombie-like creatures.] Atreu: Ahh! My bow! Kratos: No! You're not ready - Stay back! Atreu: Father! Above you! Watch your right! [Kratos destroy the dead using the superhuman force of his fists and his magic ax that freezes the enemies.] Atreu: Drauggr? Theyan ¢ I never came as close to our woods before. Kratos: Keep moving. Atreu: UHA | It was this way. I can see more tracksã, | Or we can follow it. [They descend into a small cave for a chain attached to a stone.] Atreu: Drauggr? Theyan ¢ I never came as close to our woods before. Kratos: What? Atreu: the wolves. They Werenà ¢ t means. They were starving. Kratos: Yes. I imagine they were. [He opens a nearby tune and takes some coins from there.] Atreu: What -A? Kratos: He can not use it anymore. We can. [They continue the trip.] Atreu: (for himself) will we be lost? Naha | Should we be here? [Notes atru that the deer jumped the wall in ruins of the old temple ¢]] Atreu: Until there! It was in the old temple. But my mother told me never to get in there. Kratos: We do what pleases us, boy. No excuses. [He opens a soft wood door.] Atreu: look. [He realizes the deer. He stays in a fairly small distance from the characters, but it is impossible to get closer] Atreu:. Can I have my bow back now? Kratos: Can you hit him from here? Atreu: We should get closer. [They go around, trying to get closer from the deer.] Atreu: I went hunt with your mother and a lot of times. You never wanted to take me. Because now? Kratos: It was your wish. Canca | It was time. Atreu: Okay. Drauggr! [Breaks Kratos through your bothers.] Atreu: managed somethingà ¢ s open this gatea | Opening items. You froze in place. Clever. Kratos: Follow me, dared. Atreu: Soooà ¢ | Nice. Where are you going? I think he's in this way. [In the far corner of a small cave, Atreu perceives a skillfully made plate in which a Northern Legend History is designed. The plaque is closed with two blinds] Atreu:. Oh look, ità ¢ s skoll and hati â € the giant wolves chasing the sun and the moon. Where did they come from? How did they get there? Whatâ € Are it happening at the end? Do they eat the sun and the moon and then struggles everybody? [After a short walk, Kratos and dared to find the deer again. It was preparing to shoot an innocent creature for the first time] Kratos: Wait for my Marka | Relax .. Do not think about it as an animal. It is simply a target. Clean your mind. (Inhaled breath) firmly your goal and breathe. Exhale and release. Atreu: I understood. Kratos: Good. Atreu: I taão SA | Itam is still alive. Kratos: Your knife ¢ | No. End what you started. Atreu: I canna | [Kratos holding his hand with a knife in his hand. Together, they finish the animal] Atreu: IA | [Suddenly, a giant attacks Trolls them. There are a pieces of stone column in your hands, and fire and fury in your eyes] Kratos: We do not have a choice. Atreu: Miss! Ok - just say that when shooting! WOW! Watch your right! Sorry cane t. Nist! Watch one of them! Tell me Whena | HEAN is very strong! Never keep hitting you! Why is not he falling? Kratos: Come back, boy. Atreu: Fall, Damn! AUTUMN! Ready and waning. Beware of the father! Sorry, it's not ready. Prepare. Kratos: Control you receive from yourself, boy! Atreus: I was fine. Kill this! [Kratos kills the troll ripping his bleed. It runs up to the corpse and starts to stab you furiously and scream] ATREUM:. Raaaa! Thatà ¢ What you win. Kratos: Boy! Atreu: (to the Troll) Think Ian ¢ I'm afraid of you ?! You are nothing! Kratos: Boy! Atreu: Kratos: Boy! Atr Atreu: What? Are you talking about a lot? I found the deer. I showed myself. How is I not ready? Kratos: We're going home. Atreu: I'm ready. Kratos: Do not talk again. Atreu: the house path is in this way. Duh. [Kratos is about to go home.] Atreu: Still cane t get the doors open, huh? Kratos: Quiet. Atreu: What is this thing? I said something was different about the forest. Kratos: And I told you not to speak. Atreu: But why a troll fire burn Motherà ¢ s Garden? And since when are almost at home. Inside, boy. [Soon they're going back to your cabin.] Atreu: Itams is not fair. He does not know anything ¢ | Kratos: You lost control. Atreu: That thing was trying to kill us. Itams not as you do not get angry in a fight. Kratos: Anger can be a gun if you control it one to use it. You can clearly not. When you lose | Atreu: I had the sick state there is a long time. I Å ¢ m better now. Kratos: Fine. (Put your hands in front of him) Come on then. Atreu: Do you want me to hit you? Kratos: Try again. Atreu: Why are you doing this? Kratos: too slow. Try again. Atreu: Stop it! Kratos: Weak. Again. Atreu: Stop! Kratos: Again. Atreu: (light cough) Kratos: Your Angera | You can get lost in it. The front path is difficult and you, dared, are not clearly ready. [Someone is knocking on your door.] The Stranger: Let's go out! Items more no occult use. I know who you are ... Atreu: What & S Happening? Do you know him? The Stranger: ... More important I know what you are! Kratos: I do not know. Enter. The Stranger: Just tell me what is that? Kratos: I do not know. Enter. The Stranger: Just tell me what I want to know! There is no need for bloody. [Kratos leaves the cabin. He is attended by a slim man with a light brown beard. The man uses almost no clothes - only light pants. His body is covered with Blue Tattoos] The Stranger :. Thinking Youà ¢ d Be bigger. But you will definitely re the only one. Long way home, Arena t you? Kratos: What do you want? The Stranger :. Oh, you already know the answer for that. Kratos: Whatever you seek do not have it. You should move on. The Stranger: hahaha. And I thought his kind was to be so enlightened. Much better than us. So much smarter. And yet you hide here in the forest - like a coward. Kratos: You do not want this fight. The Stranger: OHA | I'm sure I'll do it. (Bates Kratos) Kratos: Leaveh ¢ | Myan, | fists, but this does not seem to deal much damage. The Stranger or Gemer de Pain] The Stranger:. Pointless. You bored me. Are you trying? Come on, already. Witch: The Tower Jötunheim disappeared from all the kingdoms longer than a hundred winters when the giants disappeared from Midgard. Where the tower was and as they moved, remaining a mystery. [A realm of completion.] Atreus: It did not work. We're still here. Witch: Follow me. Kratos: The bifran is dark. Witch: This trip was your last use. There is no way back until it is refueled with the light of Alfheim. Kratos: So we're stuck. Witch: Someone of your ability should have little problem to return to Midgard. Atreus: And we will be able to make this black breath leave? Witch: Witch: Barely see. Something wrong. See this light column she? Kratos: It's not probably. Come over. Atreus: Look at this place. Kratos: Stay for me. Touch nothing. Atreus: Okay, what. That's strong ... Something about a war "wax for light." I do not understand both sides needed, why not share it. Kratos: Ganânia. You will find a common cause for war. Atreus: They keep murdering the elves of light. Kratos: It's war ... the end of one. The lost dresses. Atreus: Oh. Take care! Behind you, enemy fire! I'm defined. No ready. What are they attacking us? We did not do anything. Kratos: Hmph. More will come. Atreus: UghÅ ¢ â € £ | Where are these things come? That! Did you say anything? Kratos: No. Atreus: Oh. Okay. At least we are approaching the light. Another cipher piece! I'll see what I can fit together. Wait ... Is it that Sindri? Kratos: How are you here before us, dwarf? We were told that our way was the only one among the kingdoms. Sindri: It may be the only way to travel. But the dwarfs are full of surprises. Kratos: This is not an answer. Sindri: Oh, hang in this sense of wonder! There is so little mistake once you have accumulated the wealth of Arcane Knowledge I have. Where to comb the realms by exotic resources, such as artworks in creations that challenge the imagination ... for the beginner, I am sure everything seems magic. Oh, alright, it's magic. Are you happy now? [Kratos buy some updates.] Sindri: What do you talk to you? You probably should not let my brother lie again, but if he does. Tell him to season your action any longer, he's pushing the mouth work. Anything you need, young man ... Aaand we are back to you. What a surprise. I do not suppose you could try to keep this clean ... use it in good health. Pssst ... And you, young man? If you are not in pressure $\hat{a} \notin \neg$ | Atreus: What do you say? Kratos: I did not say anything. Atreus: OkA $\hat{c} \hat{a} \notin |$ [They embark on the boat and sail.] Kratos: Has your mother spoke of this kingdom? Atreus: Not much. Only, once the elves were always fighting over the light, he kept them isolated. Huh? Kratos: Has your mother spoke of this kingdom? Atreus: Strange. I do not hear that? Kratos: I do not hear anything. Atreus: af Going away now. Many voices a € | angry. Did not you really hear that? Kratos: No. Atreus: It seems ... evil. To look. Should we try to talk to them? Kratos: They do not worry. Atreus: Look at this ... this must be the nested temple. It's sad the elves can not work things. Alfheim is a place so beautiful, Masà ¢ â € | Kratos: enough. Atreus: "I or inside me or inside me, death is certain / still inside you, I am the pure life." But ... "I do not see any race around here. Kratos: We must meet him. Back to the boat. Atreus: Sad elves can not work things. Alfheim is a place so much. The beautiful, but ... the war makes it ugly. Kratos: You see with the eyes of a child. In the war, a soldier sees beauty only in the blood of his enemy. The rest of him is lost - sometimes Never return. Atreus: You ... You know about war, not ... Kratos: wars are fought for two things ... Survival or advantage. Battle can be won for the best Soldier. Wars are winning by those who are willing to sacrifice everything to ensure victory. Atreus: The blue door - this will be at the entrance. Come on! Kratos: Atreus, follow me. Atreus: Be well ! About you, beware! Prepare. Attention! This! Beware of the Father! Tell me when ... Mother was a warrior. Was she also at war? Kratos: From a spy. Her family was decimated by hostile rivals, and she survived. She walked on the path of the warrior, but her war was to live. To face a implacible world alone Atreus: And that's why she asked Sindri and Brok to make her ax? Kratos: She was forced to wield this weapon and wisdom to use it forever. She found proposed to protect the weak. Atreus: So ... Kratos: No. Atreus: The blue door that has to be the entrance. Let's go! Kratos: Caution, boy. Atreus: What are they doing? The bridge is gone. They covered the crystal with these things. Why? Kratos: To avoid reinforcements. Atreus: (sigh) NISTA! To your right, fire received! No ready. Look back from you! You look hurt! Arriving! They were lucky. Just one more! Maybe we can fix the bridge from there. Okay, so did you do something ... I guess? No! Stand up! Okay, so that did something ... I guess? Fire, Entering! From behind! I have! Behind you, be careful! Atreus: Okay, so that did something ... I guess? Look out parent! Direct at the target! Careful! I have! Nist! What's their problem with us?
